

LIVE

On Eve of Georgia Senate Runoffs, Trump Call Complicates Matters

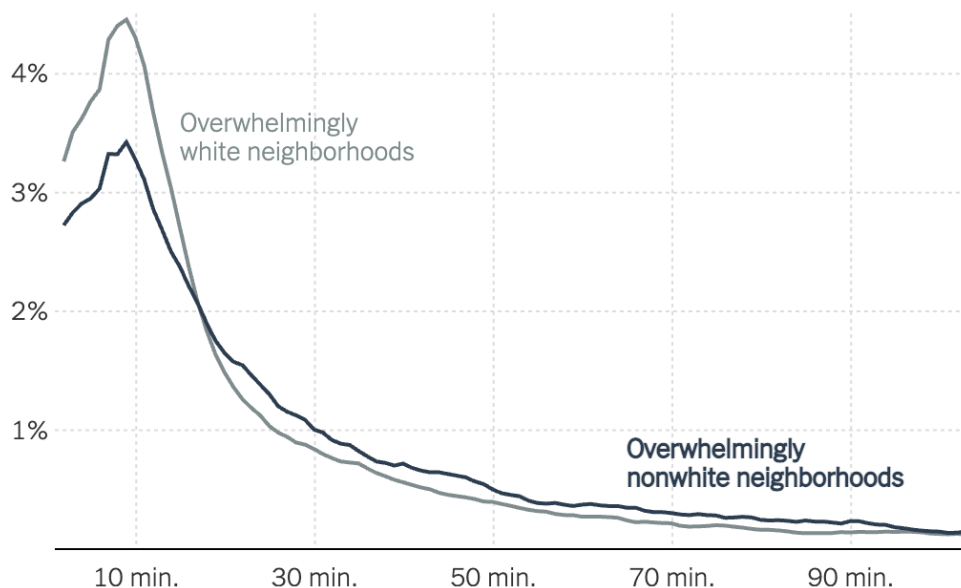

President Trump upended the Georgia race with a phone call in which he pressured state officials with baseless claims of voter fraud.

Mr. Trump and President-elect Joe Biden will hold rallies in the state ahead of Tuesday's runoffs, with Senate control at stake. Here's the latest in politics.

---

Election Day Voting Took Longer in America's Poorest Neighborhoods

An analysis found that casting a vote in 2020 typically took longer in poorer, less white neighborhoods than it did in whiter and more affluent ones.

---

In Taped Call, Trump Pressures Georgia Official to 'Find' Votes

President Trump vaguely warned of a "criminal offense" as he pressured Secretary of State Brad Raffensperger in a call, according to audio excerpts.

ADVERTISEMENT

